Yearbook Staff

Meredith counts pics.

Nancy converses with her computer.

Sally tries to organize the desk.

Meredith is excited about finally finishing a page!

Lindi attempts to crop herself.

After 187 pages, endless afternoons, and too many early mornings, the yearbook is finally finished, and all I can say is, it's about time. Despite the long hours, working on the yearbook staff has been fun. I would like to extend a special thanks to some of the many people who have contributed to this year's yearbook: Jesse MacMardle for drawing all of the division pages on such short notice, and all of the students, teachers, and parents who graciously donated pictures. Thank you. An extra special thanks is given to the yearbook sponsors, Mrs. Mary McGeece and Mrs. Carol Young. Although we have not always agreed (actually we seldom agree), their guidance has been very beneficial throughout the year.

And, finally, my thanks and praises go out to this year's incredible yearbook staff—Meredith Guillote, Nancy McDonald, and Lindi Robin. Not only have they spent hours taking pictures and typing pages, but they have also put up with my irritability, which is a major feat in itself. Without their hard work and dedication, this yearbook would have never been completed. Thank you and good luck on next year's yearbook.
