| Read a book by a sports or music legend. | Read book with a non-human antagonist | Read any book between 300 – 600 pages in length | Read a book that addresses a current event or social concern (i.e. bullying, social media, coastal erosion, etc..) |
| Read a book that fits in the historical fiction genre | Read a graphic novel that represents realistic fiction (NO SUPER POWERS or SUPER NATURAL ELEMENTS) Maximum 200 pgs. | Read a biography or autobiography of no less than 250 pages | Read a book written in any year before you were born |
| Free Read! | Read a book recommended by an adult whom you trust. | Read a non-fiction book recommended by your 2020-2021 science teacher. | Read a book from the Great American Read List |

Summer reading LaVergne English III

mlavergne@lsu.edu

General expectations:

a. Students select three squares to read three discrete titles; Any two tiles should connect either horizontally, vertically, or diagonally.

b. Selected books should be of 200 or more pages unless otherwise specified;

c. Students must be prepared to write a short in-class paper and make a presentation on their selections.

This paper and presentation will involve basic literary devices and literary elements familiar to the student when they enter 11th grade.

Specific expectations:

a. Create an MLA formatted works cited page with entries for each of the books that you have read.

b. Jot down notes to answer the questions: what does it mean to be human? How does this book provide insights into your answer?

c. Would you recommend this book to another person? Be specific in your justification. “Yes because it’s good” is only the start of an answer. Jot notes in support of your opinion.

Please note: I will check e-mail as I am able, but a few days may lapse between your e-mail and my response. Use intelligence guided by experience and you should be fine. Since this is how we will begin day one of school, please start off on the right foot. Please come into the classroom with a composition notebook and a blue or black ink pen. Thank you